

Going by the cigar ratings

Like all other wings of the commercial world the cigar industry also experiences big competition. Therefore every company tries to overtake their rival through various means. For this they have to set their target basing on the performances of their most successful rival. That brings up the issue of ratings. Just as you find the rating in the top sports arena like in baseball, golf, tennis and many others, similarly you also have ratings of all consumable goods including cigar, cigar accessories, and humidor.

How the cigars are rated

Ordinarily cigars are rated on the basis of their tastes, popularity, constructions and appearance. In addition there is the most important price factor. A cigar providing seven positive qualities at lower price will rate higher than a cigar providing equal number of positive qualities at higher prices.

Cigar ratings are generally scored on 1-10 basis and 100 point scales. For example the Cigar Aficionado rating ranks those getting 95-100 scores as classic, 90-94 scores as outstanding, 80-89 scores as excellent or very good, 70-79 as average and score of below 70 as poor.

In fact getting a cigar at perfect score of 10 would be a near impossibility. Cigar smokers have an insatiable quest for better cigars. The dictum is based on the theory that chasing is more fun than capturing. However there are cigars that came closest to getting the magical figure at around 8.5-9.5 scores.

Top cigars are meant for special occasions

One of the most important features of cigar reviews is that top cigars are often recommended for wedding guests, the bride and groom and members of the party. They can also be used for festive occasions. These cigars are also used in parties, important meetings followed by dinners and for venerable guests. There are various ways to list out the top cigars. One of the most popular is listing the top cigars available at least prices of around less than $2 per piece.

Cigars are not only used as stand alone items in festive and social occasions. More often than not they are also accompanied with special cigar accessories as gift items. You will obviously like to provide an accessory that will turn out to be unique in nature and posture. That is why you will require selecting a good provider who will not only provide you with quality cigars but also quality cigar accessories and humidors.

Assessing strength of cigar

Cigars can be chosen basing on their utility for the new smoker, old smoker, young generation people, older people and women. Cigar rating is as much dependent on the strength of the cigar as on the other factors. One major factor is the flavor. Many smokers use their humidors to change or moderate the flavor of cigar they use. They try to make strong cigars that are harsh in taste and undesirable, or the full bodied which means full flavor to be moderated.

Several organizations and magazines rate cigar in their own different ways. However, the end result of such rating and review are almost identical with the same cigar reaching the top spots with an occasional difference here and there. This clearly indicates that quality products are always preferred to others.
